LONDON, April 7.—The Ukrainians are willing to cease fighting the Poles if a plebiscite to decide the ownership of territory in dispute between the two republics is arranged under the control of the Entente, according to a statement made by M. Holubovitch, premier of West Ukraine, quoted in a Vienna dispatch. Mr. Holubovitch, who was interviewed by the correspondent at Stanislaw, claimed for Ukraine all the territory between the River San and the Russian frontier and said the Ukrainians would fight for it to the last. He declared, however, it is said, that because of his anxiety for peace he would consent to a vote of the people if the Poles would withdraw across the Russian border and abide by the results of the plebiscite. He added that Bessarabia had sent delegates to Rumania, and that he was hopeful that a peaceful arrangement could be reached.

FREAK TWISTER CAUSES
HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE
IN OMAHA; NO LIVES LOST*COAL BUSINESS
GAINS SLIGHTLY,
FIRST IN WEEKS*Car Demand Still 40 Per Cent
Under Normal, Statistics Show.*SIDINGS ARE CONGESTED*Coke Shipments Continue to Decline;
More Ovens Blown Out at Frick
Plants; Railways Banks Elm Grove; Finished Product Shipments Larger.

For the first time in six weeks an improvement in the coal business, which has also resulted in a demand for railroad cars, is noticeable, and since April 1 there has been an increase of 25 per cent in the coal car traffic on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad as compared with the middle of February and throughout March.

The car demand is still 40 per cent under normal and the railroad is flooded with empties. Every division has sidings filled with hundreds of these empty cars and the situation here is only slightly helped by the increased demand since April 1.

The increase in business is attributed to the necessity for consumers to make coal contracts during the first part of this month. April 1 is when a number of contracts are renewed and although consumers do not need coal at present, in order to be able to get it later it is necessary for them to make contracts now and take a little.

The coke business seems to be getting worse. Additional ovens are being blown out at plants of the H. C. Frick Coke company, and the Rainey interests are cutting down their active list, Elm Grove being out entirely. The coal from this plant is being shipped out in its raw state.

The amount of through freight traffic of finished products also seems to be increasing somewhat. This increased business means the return of duty of some of the railroad men who have been furloughed.

ADJUSTMENT OF PEACE PROBLEMS
SOON, PROBABLE*This Is Interpretation of Order for Return of Presidential Transport to France.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, April 7.—Orders given for the United States transport "George Washington" to proceed from America to a French port are not taken to mean that President Wilson is contemplating a premature departure from France.

They are thought rather to reflect a belief that the peace conference will be able to effect an adjustment of outstanding problems at a comparatively early date.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—In connection with reports from France of plans for the President's return home, naval officials said today no orders had been received in regard to the transport "George Washington" but that the vessel was undergoing her usual "clean-up" at New York preparatory to sailing for Brest on April 15. This would put her on the other side in time to start back with the President on board by May 1.

LONDON, April 7.—Premier Lloyd George will make an important statement tonight concerning the completion of the work of the peace conference, a Central News dispatch from Paris says.

PARIS, April 7.—Paul Dutska, general secretary of the peace conference, will go to Versailles today to prepare for the arrival of the German plenipotentiaries.

BEER STAMPS WITHHELDRevenue Bureau Questions Legality of 24 Per Cent Beer.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Revenue stamps for beer containing 24 per cent of alcohol will not be sold by revenue collectors pending receipt of an opinion from Attorney General Palmer as to whether the government should permit the brewing of such beer, considering it near beer, which may be manufactured under a presidential proclamation. The revenue bureau's attitude, as explained by officials, is that it cannot afford to accept tax on the 24 per cent product, which it considers at present of doubtful legality.

Tornado Strikes City Same

By Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., April 7.—Heavy property damage, but few personal injuries of consequence, resulted from a tornado that swept across the western residence section of Omaha last night shortly after 8 o'clock.

It is remarkable that this twister swooped down on the city at almost the same hour of the day of the week as the more disastrous storm of Easter Sunday, 1913. Moreover, last night's tornado entered Omaha at exactly the same spot as its deadlier predecessor and in general followed the same path for a considerable distance.

NEW HUNGARIAN

VIENNA DISPATCH

By Associated Press.
VIENNA, April 7.—(Havas).—The Hungarian government in Budapest has been overthrown, according to rumors current in official circles, the newspaper says. Bela Kun, the foreign minister, is reported to have been assassinated.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Advices reaching the State Department today indirectly from Vienna said the communistic revolution seemed imminent in German Austria.

The communist government in Budapest was still in office Saturday and on that day Bela Kun in a statement to the correspondent of the Associated Press said that a proposition had been made to General Jan C. Smuts, the Allied representative in Budapest, that representatives of the various states of the old Austria empire and Rumania hold a conference to discuss boundaries and economic questions.

By Associated Press.
BUTLER, April 7.—Traffic on the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, inter-urban and Butler street car lines was paralyzed for eight hours early today and the city was in darkness last night because Giovanni Bolinola of Pittsburgh went on a rampage and with his "little wire clippers" as he called them, gave the police and a squad of wire repairmen a busy time.

According to the police Bolinola is demented but the man maintained his mind is clear and that he was detained by cut every wire in Butler. He nearly succeeded in attaining his object when he was captured by police shortly after midnight while climbing a flagpole on the roof of the municipal building.

FRANCE WILL BE GIVEN WHAT SHE HAS FOUGHT FOR

By Associated Press.
PARIS, April 7.—(Havas).—An extremely optimistic impression now prevails regarding the settlement favorably to France of the question of her security against future aggression and the neutralization of the left bank and of part of the right bank of the Rhine. This is voiced today by the Petit Journal which in treating of the financial aspects of the situation also states that it appears France will be completely indemnified.

The belief prevailed, the newspaper adds, that Premier Clemenceau's views regarding reparations from Germany and a special indemnity for pensions for crippled and war widows will be upheld.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
RAISED OVER $10,000
DURING PAST YEAR*Most Prosperous in History of the Congregation. Pastor Voted Raise in Salary; Officers Elected.

The reports submitted at the annual congregational meeting of the Christian church yesterday morning showed that the fiscal year ending March 31 was one of the most prosperous and encouraging in the history of the church. Not only were the finances found to be in satisfactory shape but the growth of the membership and the increased activity of the church in all of its departments and auxiliaries was found to have been exceptional. Not all the reports were presented but on the basis of those filed it would appear that the total cash raised for all purposes and from all sources exceeded $10,000, the largest amount ever raised in a single year by this congregation.

Following the submission of reports the election of officers to fill vacancies caused by expiration of terms or by the death during the year resulted as follows. Elders, three years, J. L. Kurtz and U. C. Blair; deacons, three years, I. V. Rorer, Jesse Barnes, A. E. Dumbauld, W. H. Showman and M. R. Younk; one year, Charles A. Crowley; trustees, three years, F. R. Weaver and W. P. Schenck; treasurer, George W. Stauffer; church clerk, C. C. Norton; financial secretary, Harry Rogofsky; mass secretary, J. M. Grey. With the exception of Mr. Younk and Mr. Crowley these officers were re-elected. I. V. Rorer, Edward Bishop, Harry Restofsky, Kendall Corvix, Byron Leighty, John D. Frazer, L. B. Rinsler, J. P. Rost, Jesse H. Moore and B. V. Swartzweider were chosen as ushers.

In appreciation of the services rendered by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Buckner, the congregation voted him an increase of $200 per year in salary to date from April 1. Resolutions of respect for Henry Kurtz, who had filled the office of deacon 25 years preceding his death last December, were adopted.

LIQUOR LICENSE
COURT SHORTEST
"IN OLD FIAT"*List Disposed of in Uniontown
This Morning in Exactly
Eight Minutes.*NO ARGUMENTS ARE MADE

At Opening Judge Van Swearingen Announces That None Will be Permitted Unless Good Reason is Given; Westmoreland Action Discussed.

The shortest license court on record in Fayette county was held in Uniontown this morning, the list being disposed of without argument, in eight minutes. Judges J. Q. Van Swearingen and E. H. Reppert were on the bench.

One remonstrance, that against Mrs. Lillian Leighty of the Central Hotel, Dawson, was presented.

In the beginning Judge Van Swearingen made the statement that counsel for applicants must have good reason for arguments to be presented or none would be permitted. None was made.

Whether the remark of the court was made because there was but one remonstrance or for a more significant reason was a problem for the small number of hotel men, about 20, who appeared in court.

There are 79 applications on the list of which 56 are for hotels, 14 for distilleries and nine for breweries.

It is customary with the court to hand down the decisions the latter part of April. The present licenses expire April 30.

The refusal of licenses in Westmoreland county Saturday was the topic for general discussion on the streets here. The refusal came about through the failure of Judge D. J. Snyder to agree with Judge A. D. McConnell that licenses be granted and the refusal was the subject for argument pro and con.

So far as is known no steps toward contesting the court's action have been taken, if such action is possible of being sustained.

Following is the voluntary statement of Mrs. Mary Rice, who resides at No. 512 General Robinson street, North Side, and who has lived in the same house for 13 years and was born and raised on the North Side, She stated:

"I had stomach trouble for some time, was very nervous and restless and could not sleep at night. At one time I had not slept for a month. I became very thin and in fact was a physical wreck. I had tried various remedies, but nothing seemed to help me. I heard of Plant Juice and the wonderful results which were being obtained from its use, and decided to try same. I have used it more or less for the last year, and it has cured me. I have regained my former weight, sleep well at night, my nerves are in good condition, and my stomach is all right. I can now digest my food and do not experience that distressed and bloated feeling that I did prior to taking your remedy. I would strongly advise all stomach sufferers to take Plant Juice."

HISTORICALLY CORRECT; LEG-ALLY SOUND.

The recent decision of Judge Kundel of the Dauphin county court sustaining the action of the Public Service Commission in its protest against the advance in telephone rates by order of Postmaster General Burleson, upholds Governor Spruiell in his confession that Pennsylvania has every right to exercise its own police powers, and will serve as rather emphatic notice to the director of the federal telephone administration that he has no warrant of law to advance rates without first making application to our own rate regulating body. This is required of every public utility in the state. Just because the government has assumed operative control of telephones does not invalidate our state laws governing such matters, even if the bumptious head of the post office department happens also to be the head of the telephone administration.

In his decision Judge Kundel said that if the rate of the telephone companies were not sufficient to meet their needs, they have a way provided through appeal to the Public Service Commission.

"But," observes the Harrisburg Telegraph, "Mr. Burleson was not interested so much in the welfare of the company as he was in forcing his own personal authority upon a sovereign state of the union, of overturning its laws to demonstrate its own powers and to concentrate governmental power at Washington to an extraordinary degree by robbing the commonwealth of a right guaranteed it under the federal constitution. No such barbaric attempt to override a constitutional guarantee was ever made in the United States.

"Pennsylvania has a perfect right to make its own laws, to govern its own corporations and to enforce them, and Judge Kundel takes a stand that will be supported by all loyal Pennsylvanians when he upholds the position of the commonwealth in maintaining that within the state of Pennsylvania state laws regulating purely state matters are supreme. Otherwise one of the great fundamentals under which the commonwealths which make up the union have been operating would be overthrown and a source of constant bickering and quarreling between state and national governments would ensue."

Incidentally, this decision should remind a Democratic administration that the position of Pennsylvania on this question is historically correct
as well as legally sound.

THE BELGIANS AND WILSON.

In the carefully censored news dispatches sent out from Paris we have all been led to believe that the common people of Europe repose with much faith and confidence in the supplicating utterances of President Wilson, touching the future of the world under the beneficent operation of a league of nations, that they have forgotten their woes and the sad plight to which the war has reduced them.

That the people who have suffered most from the war have naught so remote a view of the situation as we have generally supposed, is revealed in a letter written by an American manufacturer who has been in Belgium in the midst of the desolated sections of that stricken country for some months. Writing from Liege, one of the first cities to feel the awful seizure of German occupation, Jerome
R. George, vice president of the Morgan
Construction Company of Worcester,
Mass., says:

"These people want back their tools,
the mills, engines, motors, cranes stolen by the Boche and they all say that if Wilson would go back home
they might get them.

"These people are a very practical people and not full of rhetoric especially at this time when they are so starved and hungry.

"I have walked about the towns from end to end and I have not seen a picture of Wilson—but in every window of shop and home one sees pictures of Foch, Pershing and most of all Clemenceau. Clemenceau is the man of the hour in Europe and in spite of the fact that I am an American and naturally sympathize with the allies, it is an easy plain that both the French and Belgians wish we had over here a representative who was not spending his time trying to bind up all the un-realities of life in rhetorical phrases.

"The Belgians say Wilson is a 'schoolmaster'.

"They say Clemenceau is the strong practical man upon whom they rely they hope not only of immediate relief
but of future security from the Boche and all this, they say and think, realizing full well that American food has been their food since the day the Boche
were slaving for the devilish Hun.

In short, the Belgians want that peace they poured out their life's blood to help win, and they want it concluded before Germany has won at the peace table all, or more, than she hoped to gain in the field. No one—nobody—do they want that man

in whom they have the greatest faith, and who most intimately knows their needs, to be allowed to say how and by what means that peace shall be safeguarded in the future.

Industry Master

Painter

When Industry is going at his best he is next to Nature, the master painter of the world. And the picture he paints, best, most effectively, is Prosperity.

Industry will take a midnight sky that is as black as your hat and in a twinking transform it into a glowing, pulsing, variegated thing of beauty, in colors so extravagantly yet beautifully blended that a Rubens, a Velasquez, a Rembrandt or any one of the accepted old masters couldn't adequately reproduce it in a hundred years.

He can do this every night over in the iron and steel districts about Pittsburgh, in the Connellsville coke region, down in the Pocahontas district of Virginia, at Birmingham, at Gary, at a dozen places one might name. And every day in thousands of cities and towns stretching from coast to coast and from the lakes to the gulf he can paint the skies above you with a haze
no painter has yet been able to imitate with truth.

Possibly you haven't even thought of this. Possibly you've thought, miles away from your home town in vacation season, that the skies were the bluest, the brightest, the most beautiful that you have ever seen. Wished that you might always bask in that open, welcoming smile. But when the vacation was over how good the skies that Industry painted above your home looked once more to you.

Industry is the one painter of them
all that paints for the common good,
patiently, tirelessly, uncomplainingly.
Asking no place in the gallery of fame; demanding no recognition, no honors. Exacting no high prices for his work. And of them all he has been the least appreciated.

We must keep Industry busy on the job. Tireless at his masterpiece—Prosperity. Congress just the other day voted Uncle Sam authority to pay him something more than $2,700,000,000 for cancelled contracts—war contracts.

He must have that money if he is to go on painting in his pre-war fashion.
The Victory Liberty Loan will help pay that bill. Will help keep him busy.

Neglect of Army Nurses.

The American Journal of Nursing

We recently spent some time in New York, where the arrival of French nurses bringing our troops from France was a daily occurrence made much of by the press. The names of officers, both military and medical, with their impressions of conditions abroad were frequently given. Usually, too, there was a reference to some French nurse, Bowerly or from an obscure district in Brooklyn, because of distinguished service. Practically all of these incoming names had nurses abroad. Occasionally a newspaper mentioned, when summing up the personnel of officers and men, "five or 20 or 50 women nurses," but none by name. Nor did they recognize the distinguished service rendered by any of them. Even Miss Mary E. Glavin, who went to Serbia with the first Red Cross unit, and who has served throughout the war, came into New York and departed for her home, without the slightest public recognition.

That others are noting this apparent neglect is instance by the names of marks of Senator Calder of Brooklyn, who, in debate just before the close of the last session of Congress, asked why this government has not given recognition to the work of nurses such as has been accorded them by other governments.

We are told that English and Australian and Canadian nurses—among the last named of whom rank was established before the war—have soldiers provided to carry their luggage, to clear the way for them when they are leaving the ship or when traveling from one place to another and that they are provided for and treated with the same distinction as officers.

A few days ago, we saw a group of American nurses come off a big transport, carrying their heavy suit cases, and a big bugle, so down the gang plank that looked to be at an angle of 45 degrees, and travel the whole length of the Hoboken pier between rows of soldiers lined up on either side.

What an impression to leave on the minds of these men, any one of whom if not under military regulations would have been glad to help carry the nurses' heavy baggage out of sum-ple courtesy. There was not the slightest attention paid to them by any of the official groups who were there to welcome the men or by the public in general. It would look as if because they have served the government as nurses these women are considered not better than but below the status of the ordinary woman.

Whether Internationalism is Leading.

Manufacturers Record.

When we cease to love America more than we love all other countries, the time will have come when we shall have ceased to love our own families before all other families, when we shall have ceased to love our wives above other men's wives, and when we shall have placed womanhood on that plane proclaimed by the Bolsheviks of Russia, which says that woman is the property of the state to be made merchandise of for the use of the state.
The population of a state. Then we shall have justly reached the point, and indeed we shall have reached it before then, when we shall have joined in the Bolshevik cry, "No God!"

And that is the way in which we are rapidly hastening under the campaign that is now under way, a campaign to sap the patriotism of America, to sap the manly, heroic sentimentality of the sturdy manhood and womanhood of this nation and its recognition of the power of Almighty God.

KEEPING TAB.

The boss is keeping tab my son, he marks your every curve; and if you do not earn your money, you'll get what you deserve. If you are only slightly when your weekly wage you grab

you'll shortly join the jobless men—

the boss is keeping tab. Perhaps you fool around at night, and paint the village red, when you'd be wiser sleeping tight in your nice truckle bed;

then you are dead upon your feet when you duty go; you make a small look pretty fleet, your movements are so slow; your eyes look like a total loss

you have a taste that's drab; you cannot put such things across—the boss

is keeping tab. Perhaps your thoughts have roamed afar from work you ought to do; you're thinking of some movie star who made a hit with you;

or of a jodelle you will take when

this sad day is done; or of a shady way to make a little bunch of money or of a large plank tender that you

at night will stab; 'twere better far to earn your coin—the boss is keeping tab.

And then, perhaps, on t' other hand, you're working like a dog, you're hustling round to beat the band, to make the business grow. And there is error in your work; your movements are not dead; you do not pause to watch the clock, and count the hour aloud. Success for you is looming

plain; some big prize you will nab;

the worker does not work in vain—the boss is keeping tab.

THE HILLS OF TOMORROW.

The hills of tomorrow are waiting for us—a little bit farther to go—

And now as we stand on the peaks of today a hint of their beauty we know; we catch but a glimpse of the splendor

to be with the birth of another new day.

And the hills we shall claim and the goals we shall reach if only we keep on the way.

The hills of tomorrow are calling to us as higher and higher we climb. We pause in our tents on the peaks of tonight and sweetly we rest for a time.

But the morning shall wake us to struggle anew, and never we'll turn to go back.

We must come to the top, for the dream that we had, however we lighten our pack.

Behind us are strewn like the wreckage of ships the things that we thought we should need.

There are customs and manners and habits thrown out and many an old-fashioned creed.

For the higher we climb the more clearly we see and we change as we broaden our view.

And the cumbersome burdens we carried of old we drop for the things that are new.

We're not that way we were when our journey began, we have groped

through the area of night.

We have lightened our packs of the errors they held as slowly we've climbed to the right.

We have changed in our value of silver and gold, to our children new lessons we teach.

For ever we turn from the false to the true as the hills of tomorrow

we reach.

RULES UNDER WHICH SOLDIERS AND SAILORS CAN CONVERT WAR RISK INTO STANDARD POLICIES

The rules for the conversion of the War Risk policies taken out by soldiers, sailors and marines, into standard policies after they have left the service have been announced by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance as follows:

Present certificates are one year renewable term contracts, and may be continued as such for a period of five years only, from the declaration of peace.

At any time during this period of five years the term policies may be converted without medical examination into any one of the following six forms: Ordinary Life, Twenty-Payment Life, Thirty-Payment Life, Twenty-Year Endowment, Thirty-Year Endowment and Endowment maturing at age 62. If the term policies are to be converted as above, the conversion must take place during the five-year period mentioned.

These forms will be the only ones written and the insurance will be carried by the government at rates considerably lower than private companies.

The rates are net rates based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality with interest at 3% per cent, figured upon a monthly basis. All expenses of the bureau are paid by the government, thereby permitting the net rate. This means that the monthly net rate will average 15 per cent below a similar rate in participating private companies.

Policies will contain a waiver of premium and total disability clause, making the policies payable at any time that the insured becomes totally and permanently disabled, regardless of his age. No policy in a private company contains a similar clause running beyond the age of 65. An average rate of eight per cent would have to be charged for such a policy in private companies.

Rates per $1,000 of insurance for government policies at the ages named are as follows:

Age	Mon.	Ann.	Mon.	Ann.
20	$1.15	$12.50	$1.15	$12.50
25	1.20	13.25	1.20	13.25
30	1.47	17.36	1.47	17.36
35	2.10	25.71	2.10	25.71
40	2.81	35.71	2.81	35.71
45	3.58	49.47	3.58	49.47
50	4.41	66.46	4.41	66.46
55	5.38	87.01	5.38	87.01

Endowment

Age	Mon.	Ann.	Mon.	Ann.
20	$2.21	$23.10	$2.21	$23.10
25	2.32	24.34	2.32	24.34
30	2.58	26.80	2.58	26.80
35	3.41	40.28	3.41	40.28
40	4.31	54.46	4.31	54.46
45	5.28	72.47	5.28	72.47
50	6.38	95.01	6.38	95.01

In comparing above rates with those of private companies an average of 18 per cent of the premium should be added to private company annual rates—40 per cent on account of monthly premium basis of government policies, and eight per cent on account of government disability clause. If an annual premium is paid under a government policy and death occurs all of the premium except current month is refunded. It will, therefore, be noticed that the government rate under converted policies will average about 38 per cent below the rates of participating private companies. The low rate provided by the government and the special disability clause is granted only to soldiers and sailors holding regular term policies issued under the War Risk Act, the government assuming all expenses.

Converted policies will participate in dividends earned from any mortality or interest savings. These dividends may be used to reduce premiums or accumulate at compound interest. All policies are non-taxable, incontestable and non-assignable.

Cash values under converted policies are provided beginning at the end of the first year, being the full 50 per cent reserve values. Loans may be made up to 94 per cent of the cash value. Participating, paid-up and extended insurance is guaranteed in all converted contracts.

All policies are payable in event of death, only in 210 monthly installments. Endowment policies are payable in cash at maturity if desired.

A bill before Congress extends the permitted class of beneficiaries, and provides for full payment to estate if no beneficiaries in permitted class are living when policy becomes a claim.

Policies may be reduced, but not increased.

Rates for converted policies are at age attained and no credit can be made for term premiums paid.

All premiums are due on the first day of each month and should be sent to "Disbursing Clerk, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C." Checks and money orders should be made payable to the treasurer of the United States.

A grace of one month is allowed in payment of premiums and liberal reinstatement provisions during a period of two years from date of lapse are contained in the policy.

Further information concerning conversion, including rates, blanks for making conversions, etc., may be secured by addressing Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Conservation Section, 301 Southern building, Washington, D. C.

Become Slender A Simple, Guaranteed Method

If you would like to lose weight, from one to five pounds of burdensome fat while eating and drinking all you need, also enjoy life far better than at present, just follow this advice:

Take seven deep breaths of fresh air each morning and evening; after each meal take a little oil of kerosene, eat all you need, but chew thoroughly, and follow other simple directions of the guaranteed Keweenaw system.

Men and women who were waddling around with heavy, sluggish bodies have, in many cases, pointed a gradual, agreeable reduction of thirty to eighty pounds, with wonderful benefit to health and figure. This very reason is the time to become slender, attractive, vivacious and healthier, very easily. Get out of kerosene at the drugstore; it comes in capsules, convenient to use and is now sold at before-war low price. Weigh and measure yourself week to week. You can scarcely realize the joy that awaits you in coming to normal figure, with good health and longer life. Show others this advertisement.

A Self-Starting Career

Why not a career instead of merely a job?

What the Woods Company offers

A test as to fitness, thus eliminating the chances of failure—Practical and thorough training, followed by a post-graduate, educational course.

Weekly and Monthly Meetings of our salesmen—Semi-annual Sales Conventions attended by Home Office Officials.

Daily, Weekly and Monthly Bulletins.

Annual Outings, affording the educational advantages of travel and association with successful men.

A Profit-Sharing Plan—Life insurance carried in favor of the salesman's family at no expense to him.

Franchise to sell the most popular American investment in "The Strongest in the World," in the most profitable field, Equitable, through its thousands of policy holders and beneficiaries.

The co-operation and support of an established, incorporated organization, financially strong, which accepts business from its accredited salesmen only.

It usually requires considerable capital merely to start a business—still more to carry it on until it becomes profitable.

Therefore, a business or profession in which one may make from the very outset a substantial income is well worth considering.

Life Insurance is such a business—a profession that can not only be entered without capital, but offers many other distinct advantages.

It is a healthful occupation, taking you out of doors and enabling you to get proper exercise.

It permits you to live at home. The most successful men and women in the profession have their clientele in the community in which they were born and raised.

It is a live career, ever growing in importance and usefulness.

It is a career less affected by financial unrest than any other line of business.

It is an independent career. You are your own master. Every ounce of effort you put into your work increases your rewards.

It is a career that is never over-crowded. There are no limits to its opportunities. Everybody needs one or more of the many forms of protection afforded only by life insurance. It is the practical solution of many commercial and industrial problems.

It is a career suggested and strongly recommended by the U. S. Government as a profitable occupation for discharged soldiers.

The Edward A. Woods Agency of the Equitable Life Assurance Society—the largest and strongest life insurance agency in the world—has room on its selling force for a few more good men and women.

This is your opportunity to enter a clean, essential, permanent occupation, a self-starting profitable career, if you are suited for it.

Our simple tests, similar to those used so successfully by the U. S. Army, will enable us to estimate your fitness, and if we feel your chances of success are not good, we will advise you frankly not to take up the work.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits over time.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork. By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves. People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shrink back and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nervous-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks, and at trifling cost.

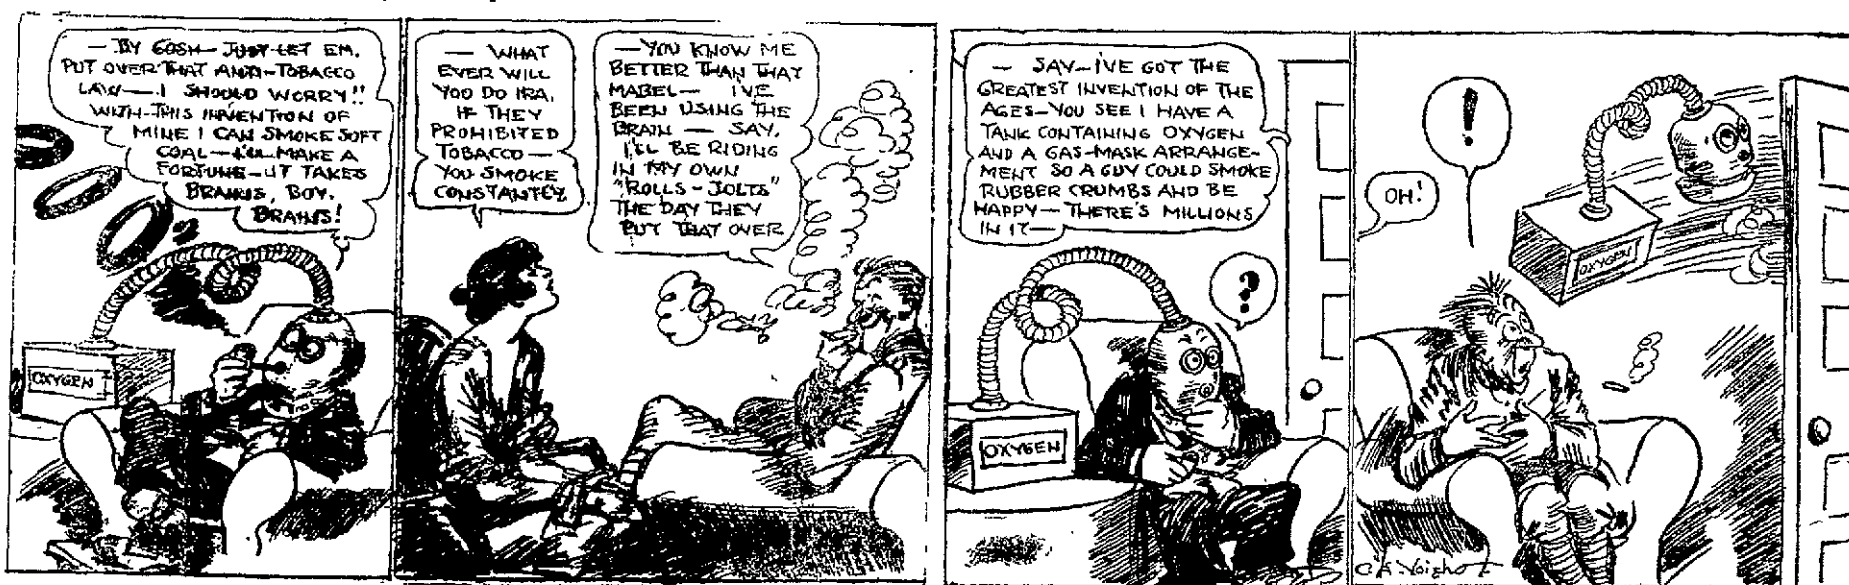

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but a man new and a woman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-ferrin every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—let your nerves be not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-ferrin is without doubt the greatest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

IS SKILLFUL IN SACRIFICING

Eddie Roush of Cincinnati is regarded as Best All Around Batter in American League.

Eddie Roush of Cincinnati is unquestionably the most resourceful and best all-around batsman of the National league. There is nothing pertaining to the art of hitting that Ed die does not do well.

Two years ago Roush led the National league in batting. Last year he was second to Zack Wheat. He only lost the championship by a margin of two points and his hitting was far more impressive than that of the Brooklyn star.

There are two things, though, that illustrate Roush's skill with the bat more than a mere batting average does. He led the National league in sacrifice hitting and only struck out ten times in 113 games.

One expects skill in sacrificing of a light hitter. But Roush is a slugger who made 145 hits and 108 bases last year. Yet he is a master at laying down the ball when he has to.

A man who is skillful in sacrificing is a long-distance hitter and strikes out only ten times in a season comes as close to batting perfection as a human being can come.

MA'S ON THE RAMPAGE

By EDWINA

"Well, pa come out with my gun an' his'n on we walk up to where I seen the hosses. Shore 'nough, one of 'em was still hitched to the fence, an' t'other was gone. We stood around a minute or two examin'n' the loss an' then pa says let's go up the road a ways an' see if we c'n see anything. An' by gosh, we hadn't gone mor'n fifty feet afore we come plain on a man lay'n in the middle of the road. Pa shook him an' he didn't let out a sound. He was warm, but den'd'n a tombstone. I wuz fer leavin' him there dill we'd git the corner, but pa says no. We'd carry him down to our porch an' lay him there, so he'd be out o' danger. I jumps on Polly an' lights out fer here, Mr. Jones, to telephone up to Saint Lis for the sheriff an' the coroner, not givin' a dang what I run into on the way. Polly shied some thin' terrible jest afore we got to the pike an' I come derned near bein' throwed. An' right there 'side the road was this feller, all in a heap. Thinks I, you poor cuss, you must 'a' tried to stop that feller on horseback an' he plunked you. That accounted for the second shot. The thing that worries all of us is did the same man do the shootin', or was there two of 'em, one wait'n down the cross-roads?"

"Must have been two," said Jones, thoughtfully. "The same man couldn't have got there ahead of him, that's sure. Did anybody go up to Green Fanny to make inquiries?"

"Twasn't necessary," Mr. Curtis heard the shoot'n' an' jest before we left he sent a man out to see what it was all about. The old skeet'n' that's been driv'n his car lately come down half-dressed. He said nothin' out of the way had happened up at Green Fanny."

"It's most mysterious," said Barnes, glancing round the circle of awed faces. "There must have been some one lying in wait for these men, and with a very definite purpose in mind."

"Strikes me," said Jones, "that these two men were up to some kind of dirty work themselves, else why did they say they were goin' to Spanish Falls? They were queer act'n' men, I'll have to say that."

"His eyes met Barnes' and there was a queer light in them."

"You don't happen to know anything about this, do you, Mr. Barnes?" he demanded, suddenly.

CHAPTER V.

The Farm-Boy Tells a Ghastly Story and an Irishman Enters.

Barnes started, "What do you mean?" he demanded sharply.

"I mean just what I said. What do you know about this business?"

"How should I know anything about it?"

"Well, we don't know who you are, nor what you're doing up here, nor what your real profession is. That's why I ask the question."

"I see," said Barnes, after a moment. He grasped the situation and he admitted to himself that Jones had cause for his suspicions. "It has occurred to you that I may be a detective or a secret service man, isn't that the case? Well, I am neither, and you know any more about these two men, Mr. Jones, than you know about me?"

"I don't know anything about 'em."

"What was their business?"

"Mr. Roon was look'n' for a place to bring his daughter who has consumption. He didn't want to take her to a regular consumptive community, he said, an' so he was look'n' for a quiet place where she wouldn't be associatin' with lungers all the time. That was his business, Mr. Barnes, an' I guess you'd call it respectable, wouldn't you?"

"Perfectly. But why should he be troubled by my presence here?"

"Miss Thackeray put an end to the discussion in a most effective manner."

"Oh, for the Lord's sake, cut it out! Wait till he's dead, can't you?" she whispered fiercely. "You've got all the time in the world to talk, and he hasn't more than ten minutes left to breathe unless that rube doctor gets here pretty soon. I think he's going

"I Think He's Going Now," She Whispered.

now. Keep still, all of you. Is he breathing, Mr. Barnes? That awful cough just now seemed to—" Her eyes were fixed on the still face. "Why—why, how tightly he holds his hand! I can't get it away—he must be alive, Mr. Barnes. Where is that silly doctor?"

Barnes unclasped the rigid fingers of the man called Andrew Paul, and, shaking his head sadly, drew her away from the improvised bier. He and the shivering Mr. Dillingford conducted her to the dining room, where a single heresewe lamp gave out a feeble, rather ghastly light.

"Would you like a little brandy?" inquired Barnes, as she sat down limp in the chair he pulled out for her. "I have a flask upstairs in my—"

"I never touch it," she said. "I'm all right. My legs wobble a little but— Sit down Mr. Barnes. I've got something to say to you and I'd better say it now, because it may come in pretty handy for you later on. Don't let those women come in here, Dilly."

"This afternoon I walked up in the woods back of the tavern to go over some lines in a new piece we are to do later on—God knows when! I could see the house from where I was sitting. Roon's windows were plainly visible. I saw Roon standing at a window looking toward the cross-roads with a pair of field-glasses. Every once in awhile he would turn to Paul, who stood beside him with a notebook, and say something to him. Paul wrote it down. Then he would look again, turning the glasses this way and that. Suddenly my eyes almost popped out of my head. Paul had gone away from the window. He came back and he had a couple of revolvers in his hands. They stood there for a few minutes carefully examining the weapons and reloading them with fresh cartridges. Just as I was about to start down to the house—it was a little after six o'clock, and getting awfully dark and overcast—Roon took up the glasses again. He seemed to be excited and called his companion. Paul grabbed the glasses and looked down the road. They both became very much excited, pointing and gasping, and taking turn about with the glasses."

"About six o'clock, you say?" said Barnes, greatly interested.

"It was a quarter after six when I got back to the house. I spoke to Mr. Bacon about what I'd seen and he said he believed they were German spies, up to some kind of mischief along the Canadian border. Then about half an hour later you came to the tavern. I saw Roon sneak out to the head of the stairs and listen to your conversation with Jones when you registered. That gave me an idea. It was my last penny that they have been hanging around here waiting for the arrival of that young woman. They knew she was coming and they doubtless knew what she was bringing with her. What do you know about Green Fanny?"

He was vastly excited. His active imagination was creating all sorts of possibilities and complications, deceptions and intrigues.

Bacon was the one who answered. "People live up there and since we've been here two or three men visitors have come down from the place to sample our stock of wet goods. I talked with a couple of 'em day before yesterday. They were out for a horse's ride and stopped here for a mug of ale."

"Were they foreigners?" inquired Barnes.

"If you want to call an Irishman a foreigner, I'll have to say one of them was. He had a beautiful brogue. The other was an American, I'm sure. Yesterday they rode past here with a couple of swell-looking women. I saw them turn up the road to Green Fanny."

The arrival of four or five men, who stamped into the already crowded hallway from the porch outside, claimed the attention of the quartette. Among them was the doctor who, they were soon to discover, was also the coroner of the county. A very officious deputy sheriff was also in the group.

Mr. Jones called out from the doorway: "Mr. Barnes, you're wanted in there."

"All right," he responded.

The doctor had been working over the prostrate form on the tables. As Barnes entered the room, he looked up and declared that the man was dead.

"This is Mr. Barnes," said Purnham Jones, indicating the tall traveler with a short jerk of his thumb.

"I am from the sheriff's office," said the man who stood beside the doctor. The rest of the crowd evidently had been ordered to stand back from the tables. "Did you ever see this man before?"

"Not until he was carried in here an hour ago."

"What's your business up here, Mr. Barnes?"

"I have no business up here. I just happened to stroll in this evening."

"Well," said the sheriff dully, "I guess I'll have to ask you to stick around here till we clear this business up. We don't know you an'— Well, we can't take any chances. You understand, I reckon."

"I certainly fail to understand, Mr. Sheriff. I know nothing whatever of this affair—and I intend to continue on my way tomorrow morning."

"Well, I guess not. You got to stay here till we are satisfied that you don't know anything about this business. That's all."

"Am I to consider myself under arrest, sir?"

"I wouldn't go so far as to say that. You just stick around here, that's all I got to say. If you're all right, we'll soon send it out. What's more, if you are all right you'll be will'n' to stay. Do you get me?"

"I certainly do. And I can now assure you, Mr. Sheriff, that I'd like nothing better than to stick around here, as you put it. I'd like to help clear this matter up. In the meantime, you may readily find out who I am and why I am here by telegraphing to the mayor of New York city. This document, which experience has taught me to carry for just such an emergency as this, may have some weight with you." He opened his bill folder and drew forth a neatly creased sheet of paper. "Read it, please, and note the date, the signature, the official seal of the New York police department, and also the rather interesting silver print pasted in the lower left hand corner. I think you will agree that it is a good likeness of me. Each year I take the precaution of having myself certified by the police department at home before venturing into unknown and perhaps unfriendly communities."

"Yes," said the sheriff dubiously, "but how do I know it ain't a forgery?"

"You don't know, of course. But in case it shouldn't be a forgery and I am subjected to the indignity of arrest or even detention, you would have a nasty time defending yourself in a civil suit for damages. I shall remain here, as you suggest, but only for the purpose of aiding you in getting to the bottom of this affair."

Standing on Jim Conley's front porch a little after sunrise, Barnes made the following declaration:

"Everything goes to show that these men were up here for one of two reasons. They were either trying to prevent or to enact a crime. The latter is my belief. They were afraid of me. Why? Because they believed I was trailing them and likely to spoil their game. Gentlemen, those fellows were here for the purpose of robbing the place you call Green Fanny."

"What's that?" came a rich, mellow voice from the outskirts of the crowd. A man pushed his way through and confronted Barnes. He was a tall, good-looking fellow of thirty-five, and it was apparent that he had dressed in haste. "My name is O'Dowd, and I am a guest of Mr. Curtis at Green Fanny. Why do you think they meant to rob his place?"

"Well," began Barnes dully, "it would seem that his place is the only one in the neighborhood that would bear robbing. My name is Barnes. Of course, Mr. O'Dowd, it is mere speculation on my part."

"But who shot the man?" demanded the Irishman. "He certainly wasn't winged by anyone from our place. Why, Lord love you, sir, there isn't a soul at Green Fanny who could shoot a thief if he saw one. This is Mr. De Soto, also a guest at Green Fanny. He will, I think, bear me out in upsetting your theory."

"Bedad," Said O'Dowd, "It Beats the Devil."

thing, Mr. Barnes—something a long shot bigger than any of us suspects."

"You'll find that it resolves itself into a problem for Washington to solve," said De Soto dully. "Nothing loath about it, take my word for it. These men were up to some international devilment. There'll be a stir in Washington over this, sure as anything."

"What time was it that you heard the shots up at Green Fanny?" ventured Barnes.

"Lord love you," cried O'Dowd, "we didn't hear a sound. Mr. Curtis, who has been the worst way possible, heard them and sent some one out to see what all the racket was about. The man, it seems, made such a devil of a racket when he came home with the news that the whole house was up in flames and peignoirs."

LEAVE IT TO "PAL"

Dog's Owner Relies on Animal's Intelligence.

Offspring of Gray Wolf and Highly Bred Scottish Guardian of Sheep, Four-Footed Companion is Beyond Value.

While in Alabama I made the acquaintance with the strangest dog I have ever heard of—the most unique creature. It has been my pleasure to get acquainted with a writer George F. Burch in the Columbus Dispatch. He belongs to a man living at Tusculum, but is known all over the state, and his name is "Pal."

Pal's mother was a shepherd and lived on the plains out West, where she looked after a big herd of sheep. In fact, she was one of the best sheep dogs in the whole region. His father was a gray wolf. So Pal is half wolf and half dog—a common enough thing out West.

Pal grew up with the sheep his mother looked after, and learned all the tricks of rounding them up and bringing them in. But he learned a whole lot more than the average sheep dog knows. He learned that every other animal as well as sheep can be directed and guided and taken care of if you know how to do it. So when Pal's owner wants any certain animal on the farm brought in, he simply tells the dog what he wants and Pal attends to it. He can tell the dog to go to the pasture a mile away and bring in a certain mule and he goes and brings it in. He can direct him to bring in a certain cow or calf or hog and it is done.

But the strange thing about it is that Pal also brings in other dogs. His owner has numerous bird dogs, which he trains upon the plantation. Pal helps train them. If a dog gets too far away, the trainer says, "Pal, bring him in," and Pal does so. He runs to the dog and crowds him toward the owner. He simply will not let him go to any other direction. He doesn't fight the other dog, although at times it may be necessary for him to bite the hold on its ear and nip it a little. But he annoys the dog until there is nothing else for it to do but to be guided by Pal.

Then Pal is the high sheriff or policeman of the whole plantation. He keeps the peace between the other animals. If two dogs get into a fight, Pal separates them. If he finds a couple of hogs or chickens fighting, he does the same thing. He doesn't bother anything upon the plantation unless it is doing something it ought not to do, and then he takes a hand in the matter and settles it. If he finds a pig in a field where it doesn't belong, he drives it out without being directed to do so. If a horse slips its bridle while hitched to the hitching post and cavers down the road, it is only for a few moments, for Pal is close upon its heels or at its nose and he brings it back and keeps it standing where it was left.

Taking the Next Census.

The government takes stock of its resources this year. July 1, 1913, begins the next decennial census of the population and industries of the United States. It comes fittingly at an important epoch in the nation's destiny and at a time when we are launching upon a new era of expansion and foreign interest. Thomas R. Logan says in Leslie's.

Our statisticians and students will be deeply concerned in the data accumulated as to the value of our industries as well as to their extent. It will be a greatly energized and strengthened America which the new census taker will find. He will observe and record the effects of the war upon our industrial life. He will report also the exact number of our cities by race and area. It will be possible to determine how far General Crowder's draft registration fell short of the actual number of population of draft age. The last census showed 98,731,324 population. Guesses as to the present population range from 105,000,000 to as high as 112,000,000. Inroads of the war, of influenza, without compensating immigration, have abated our rate of increase. Despite this, the totals may surprise us.

Country's Corn Production.

When the Indians taught the white settlers of this country how to raise corn, no flight of the imagination could have guessed the crop of 2013. Some 17,000,000 square miles, or nearly as much land as there is in Germany.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles, so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for her."

"Mrs. MARY BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio."

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous vegetable remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

OBSERVING EARTH'S SHADOW

Possibly Not All Are Aware of Conditions Under Which It is Plainly Visible.

Everybody is familiar with the shadow of the earth as it appears when the moon is eclipsed, but not many know that they can see the shadow at less rare intervals much nearer home. All that is necessary is a clear sky at sunrise or sunset, for then the shadow falls upon the dust of our atmosphere in a most noticeable and striking manner.

If you look eastward as the sun sinks behind the western horizon, a broad band of red seems to appear opposite the sun. It merges into a yellow glow above, and that in turn blends into the blue of the zenith. As the red band rises, the under side of it fades into a dull slate gray, the umbra of the shadow. The observation obtained from a position that gives a clear sweep of the horizon discloses the form of the shadow band as an arch, the crest of which is directly opposite the sun. The more depressed the sun is beneath the horizon, the higher the arch towers toward the zenith. As it rises it becomes less perceptible, until the red band that borders it on top spreads overhead in a rather weak glow.

COUNTRY HAS GREAT FUTURE

Marvelous Fertility of Brazil is Bound to Assure It High Place Among Nations.

Geographically, the United States of North America and the United States of Brazil are somewhat alike. But the water level system of Brazil runs down west to east, the tributaries of the mighty Amazon spreading out like a fan in such wise as to facilitate water communication with the most distant parts of the interior, and to make the coast cities outlets for the products of regions reaching back to the foothills of the Andes.

It is a country of the future—a territory almost virgin, indescribably rich and susceptible of a wonderful development. Nowhere else does the coffee tree bear so bountifully, producing four times the weight of fruit yielded by the plant in Mexico. Cotton and sugar cane grow like weeds. Rubber and the chocolate bean are already exported in vast quantities. Fruits are of almost infinite variety. A catalogue has been compiled of 22,000 species of wood (some of them the most beautiful in the world) found in the valley of the Amazon alone.

Evolution in Partridges.

A curious example of the effects of environment and changed conditions of life upon the forms of animals is furnished by a species of partridge that lives in the Canary Islands. Largest Earth Embankment.

The Belle Fourche irrigation dam in South Dakota is the largest earth embankment in the world. Its construction was authorized by congress at a cost of $5,000,000. From an engineering standpoint this project is one of the most interesting which the government has yet undertaken. Its principal structure is the earthen dam. This dike, which closes the lowest depression in the rim of a natural basin, is 5,200 feet long, 20 feet wide on top and 15 feet high in the highest place. The inside face of this structure, which has a slope of one to two, is protected from wind and wave action by two feet of screen gravel, on which are placed concrete blocks each 4 by 6 feet thick. The embankment consists of this dike are 42,000,000 feet, or about half of the famous pyramids of Cheops in Egypt. The reservoir created by this dam covers about 9,000 acres and will be the largest lake in the state.

AGENCIES IN TRANSFORMING CONNELLSVILLE REGION FROM COKE TO COAL PRODUCTION

Four Means Through Which By-Product Coal is Being Handled.

FURNACE AND MERCHANT

Plants Both Playing a Part; Only One Instance of Beehive Operator Joining With Steel Producer to Make By-Product Coke at Consuming Point.

From The Weekly Courier.

The change in the character of the Connelville coke region, from a beehive coke manufacturing to a coal producing center, is being effected through what may be termed four different agencies. In order of sequence by which they have become operative they are:

The adaption, whole or in part, of existing coking plants, both merchant and furnace-owned, to the shipment of by-product coal; the acquisition and development by furnace and steel interests of Connelville coking coal as a source of raw product for the manufacture of by-product coke at the point of consumption; the association of coke producers who are owners of coking coal with steel interests in the joint ownership and operation of by-product plants outside of the Connelville region; and the establishment of relations between a steel producer who is also a by-product coke producer, and an independent Connelville coal land owner, whereby the latter becomes a producer of by-product coal for the exclusive use of the former.

The order of importance is perhaps different from that just given and is very likely to undergo changes as developments grow apace. At present, however, the shipment of raw coal from plants originally designed, and for a long time operated, as coking plants only, but now partially and in some instances wholly diverted to the new purpose, takes the lead in volume of tonnage. The development of traces by new mines to be devoted solely to the production of coal for by-product coking, is yet in its primary stages, but it is fast assuming such proportions as will eventually make these operations very important, if not the most important, factors in the new order.

Several merchant producers of coke have been shippers of by-product coal in varying quantities for a number of years past and within the last year have engaged somewhat more extensively in that line. Many of the more recently constructed plants were equipped for loading coal direct from the dippers into railroad cars, and others have made such provision, hence the number of coal-loading plants has gradually increased as the by-product industry has expanded. The Republic Iron & Steel company, operator of the Republic plant of 100 beehive ovens, has been shipping its excess coal to its by-product plant for several years, together with a partial share of the whole output of the Martin plant, which has an equipment of 244 beehive ovens. The Bowwood mine of the same company is an exclusively coal loading plant as is also the Atchison mine since the permanent abandonment of its 120 beehive ovens. All of these operations are in the Lower Connelville district, from which virtually all of the by-product coal is being shipped. Early last spring the 470 beehive ovens of the Brier Hill Coke company in the Lower Connelville district were blown out, since which date the entire mine production has been going to the Brier Hill Steel company's by-product coking plant at Youngstown.

The LaBelle Coke company, operating 200 ovens has within the past two years completed a large loading plant and ships coal to the LaBelle Steel company, Steubenville, O., for by-product use while continuing part of its beehive ovens in blast.

Since last midsummer the H. C. Frick Coke company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation and the largest coke producer of the Connelville region, has been making increasingly larger shipments of coal from a number of its mines in the Lower Connelville district to the Clairton by-product plant of the Carnegie Steel company. As additional units were made ready for firing at this plant, coal shipments have been increased through cutting down the number of beehive ovens in blast at the several mines and diverting the coal by an elaborate underground electric haulage system to large loading tipples on the Monongahela river. This shifting of the destination of mine output has progressed until five large beehive oven plants—Colonial No. 4, Edenborn, Lambert, Rouco and Lockrow, with a total of 2,128 ovens have been relegated to the inactive list.

Meantime the Ralph, Palmer and Oates mines in Fayette county and the Delworth mine in Greene county, at which no coke has ever been produced although some were so designed, were overhauled and extensively improved and their output is being sent to Clairton. The 100 ovens at the Bridgeport mine were recently blown out and the mine capacity has been devoted to shipment by river. At the Maxwell mine, some miles up the river, loading preparations are under way, this being another step in the comprehensive plan of the Frick company to change its mines which are tributary to the Monongahela river into producers of coal for the Clairton by-product plant.

To date there has been but a single instance of an owner of Connelville coking coal, and operator of beehive ovens in the region, joining with a steel producer as owner and operator of a by-product coking plant. That is the union of the W. J. Rainey interests with the Alan Wood & Steel company in the formation of the Rainey-Wood Coke company which has a plant of the Koppers type of ovens in course of construction at Swedeland, Pa. This is to be supplied with coal from the mines of the Rainey interests right in the heart of the Connelville region, and long the source of supply for the beehive ovens on the property.

Several developments are in progress in the Greene county extension of the Lower Connelville district which are to be producers of by-product coal for the exclusive use of the parent steel and furnace interests. At present the most notable, and farthest advanced of these enterprises, is that of the Buckeye Coal company, a subsidiary of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company. The plant is located at the new town of Namacolin, and will have an ultimate capacity of 5,000 tons of coal per day, all of which will go to the by-product oven plants at Youngstown.

What is herein termed as the fourth of the series of agencies through which the Connelville region's evolution is being brought about, has thus far but a single example. This is found in the comparatively recent purchase by the Jamison Coal & Coke company, one of the leading merchant coal and coke producers of the Greensburg-Connelville district, of 575 acres of coking coal in the Perryopolis section of the Connelville district, which will be devoted to the production of coal exclusively. The property, which is already under development through two slope openings, will have a capacity of 2,000 tons per day. The entire output will go to the by-product plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Sparrows Point, Md. The new operation adjoins the holdings of the Washington Run Coal & Coke company, one of the leading merchant producers of the Connelville region and a long-time shipper of by-product coal.

Even with the multiplication in number and variety of means whereby the coal of the Connelville region, once held sacred to the production of beehive coke, is being utilized in the manufacture of by-product coke, no alarm is felt among coke producers over the transformation that is in progress. Firm in the faith that Connelville coal is as essential to the production of high-grade by-product coke as it has been in the manufacture of coke by the more primitive process, the operators are accepting, even welcoming, the situation as an assurance that the prosperity of the Connelville region is by no means at an end. Instead, it is the belief that, having a market for its principal product in two forms rather than one as formerly, they are infinitely better positioned than when they were subjected to the "Rings of fortune" in "Prince or Pauper" days, which Andrew Carnegie, with a keen sense of fitness in the use of descriptive terms, applied to the steel trade in the years when the by-product oven was an unknown quantity.

"AS THE SUN WENT DOWN"—A Metro feature starring Edith Storey, the talented emotional actress, who is seen in one of her most remarkable pictures, is being presented today. The story was taken from the play of that name and deals with the life of a woman who was an outcast of the settlement in which she lived and whose associates were the lowest scum of the town. The names of these rough characters tell the story of their life and are characteristic of the days of the gold rush in the early fifties. The heroine of the story is Colonel Billy, who is noted for her quickness and

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to bring it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "dizziness" and that lary feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

other girl, and the favorite saloon goes by the name of "The Miner's Paradise." In the story it is shown how a young clergyman, who has gone in search of a lost brother, is the means of causing the regeneration of many of the inhabitants of this vile mining town. Miss Storey gives a wonderful characterization of the complex woman, making her at all times thoroughly human and likeable, and it is with a feeling of gladness, in the end, that we see her happy in the right way. Miss Storey is supported by a splendid cast. A Chaplin comedy will also be shown. Wednesday and Thursday "The Common Cause" will be shown.

THE ARCADE.

"WHITE'S RAINBOW GIRLS"—Another immense attraction will open at the Arcade this afternoon and will be here for the week. It is White's Rainbow Girls. This company has never played here before, but comes well recommended by the other house managers on the circuit. The features of the company are Blanche White and Happy Gibbs, the original September evening and the king of blackface comedians, who will furnish plenty of comedy during the entire week. The opening bill will be entitled "The New Cook," a real side-splitting blackface offering with Happy Gibbs the star. There will be the usual changes of bill on Wednesday and Friday. The play-off offering for Monday and Tuesday will be another thrilling episode of the popular Ford serial "The Silent Mystery," featuring Francis Ford and Mae Gaston.
